MONOPOLY, this Office, taking when an interview may be had. your committee that an elevator of thi size, so far as grain alone is concerned, will meet all requirements looking to the establishment of the Memphis grain trade on permanent principles. Our information from Nashville, as in the case of Chicago, delived through the chamber of commerce of that city. St. Louis reports through Mr. Stanmard, ex-president of its chamber of commerce, a very prosperous condition of the elevator interests of that city, but as the corporations are close, as in Chicago, he is unable to state the earnings with any precision beyond the fact that they are very satisfactory. The St. Louis elevator, Mr. Stanmard says, was built ahead of the times, or larger than necessary, its capacity being 1/60,000 bushels, but is very prosperous. Its cost was $500,000, or at the rate of $1% cents per bushel of its capacity. The same gentleman tells of the Central elevator, St Louis, whose capacity is 400,000 bushels of grain, and which cost $160,000. Not only is this the case, but the general trade of the city has been largely increased through this agency, and property long abandoned as unsuited to commercial purposes, brought into business uses at prices very profitable to owners. In the course of their investigation the notice of your committee has been very favorably directed to a new patent system of slevation which has been adopted at Indianapolis, Quincy, St. Joseph, Onaha, Peoria, Kanaas City and Galv ston, with almost surprising results. The construction is of studding and boards, and it has been demonstrated by actual test that elevators thus built and well tied with iron rods are stronger than elevators built on the old style one of these has just been put up in Galveston by a millwright who had never seen an elevator, and it works perfectly. Such a building is not necessary to finish before it can be operated, as it consists of conveyors and bins, the number of which can be enlarged from time to time according to the demands of builtiess and the establishment thus lengthened. It was this style of elevator which Peoria elegated in a very short time from a capacity of 12,00 to 175,00 bushels without interruption of work or inconvenience of sny kind.
